Cool Liner with Celsineo aggregate for KTN Grossmann

Tobias Grossmann, Managing Director of KTN Grossmann, has now taken delivery of his first Krone Cool Liner with double-deck equipment and a CELSINEO refrigeration unit. During the handover at the Krone site in Lübtheen, where the Cool Liners are produced, Tobias Grossmann said: "I am convinced by the new refrigeration concept from CELSINEO and see many advantages for our logistics and our customers. We travel nationwide and internationally between different depots where the new vehicle will be used." Björn Budde, Krone Sales Manager DACH, said: "We would like to thank Mr. Grossmann for the trust he has placed in us over many years. With this new technology, the group of companies is underlining its innovative focus." The family-operated KTN Grossmann Group has its headquarters in Herzhorn, Schleswig-Holstein. One focus of the specialist for cross-regional logistics services is temperature-controlled transport. The company, which has three locations in Germany and one in Transylvania/Romania, operates over 90 refrigerated and curtainsider trailers and maintains its own truck workshop. Celsineo's future-proof technology works with three independently operating refrigeration modules, ensuring high availability in operation and simplified service. The CELSINEO brand is based on a cooperation between Krone and Liebherr for the development, sales and service of refrigeration units.
